The estimated selling price of $869,000 for 36 Tambo Upper Road, Swan Reach, reflects the property's unique combination of approximately 13 acres of land across two titles, its historic character and its position near the Tambo River.

Known as 'Riverslea', the property offers a substantial four-bedroom, two-bathroom homestead, along with additional separate accommodation rooms that provide flexibility for a range of potential uses. Its historical significance, generous landholding and proximity to the Tambo River, Metung and the wider East Gippsland region contribute to its appeal.

The property's two titles provide an additional point of interest, while its size and location offer opportunities for buyers seeking a rural lifestyle property, a restoration project or the potential to explore short-stay accommodation, subject to the relevant planning and regulatory requirements. The property does require further work and investment to restore and enhance the existing improvements. This has been considered in assessing the proposed selling price, with the property's current condition balanced against its land size, historic appeal, location and future potential. Taking these factors into account, the estimated selling price of $869,000 is considered a reasonable reflection of the property's overall offering and the opportunity it presents to prospective purchasers.
